Company continues to expand presence in growing Asian markets like Japan and China

Reaffirmed dedication to CSR in China

Three decades have passed since Messe Frankfurt launched its first overseas fair – Interstoff Asia in Hong Kong in 1987. Since then, the company has gone from strength to strength in the region, establishing a solid foothold in Greater China and Asia. Messe Frankfurt is an international trade fair organiser that, in 2017, boasts 777 years of history. With its headquarters located in Frankfurt, Germany, the company has approximately 2,300 employees at some 30 locations worldwide, generating an annual turnover of around EUR 647 million.

Mr Stephan Buurma, Member of the Extended Board of Management of Messe Frankfurt GmbH, explained how the geographical and economic advantages of Hong Kong have powered the company's ongoing success in Asia. "Strategically located at the heart of Asia, Hong Kong enjoys close proximity to China and strong connections with the rest of the world. We also benefit from the well-established legal and financial systems the city offers. And of course, our professional and dedicated staff members constitute a big part of our success and continued financial growth. When we started a small office in Hong Kong in the beginnings, we had less than 10 employees. Today, this office has grown to become the headquarters for Asia, overseeing close to 700 employees across the region. The number of fairs and events we organise in Asia also expanded rapidly during this time, from three to over 70."

Among these fairs are some world-leading events that are trendsetters in their respective industries. For example, Intertextile Shanghai Apparel Fabrics is the world's most influential event in the global apparel fabrics sector, while Automechanika Shanghai is the largest automotive fair of its kind in Asia.

Messe Frankfurt's first Asian subsidiary was established in Tokyo, Messe Frankfurt K.K. Incorporation in 1990. The company's first event in Japan, the Internationale Frankfurter Messe Asia, was launched in 1991 in Tokyo. This was followed by the merging with another Japanese-German trade fair organiser, Mesago Japan Corp, to form Mesago Messe Frankfurt Corp. in 2000.

Internationale Frankfurter Messe Asia, the specialist trade fair for high-end consumer goods in Japan became Interior Lifestyle Tokyo in 1999, and remains one of Japan's top events for lifestyle products. The merger with Mesago in 2000 brought new technical trade fairs, such as Thermotec, and a beauty and cosmetics fair, later renamed the renowned Beautyworld Japan, into the Japanese subsidiary's portfolio. In 2011, Interpets was launched in response to the strong demand from the local pet industry. These fairs now hold the leading positions for their respective sectors in Japan.

In 2015, the subsidiary has introduced an event called “Machiten” in Tokyo. This conference focuses on revitalisation of local town and community development. The event was very well received and was supported by the Japanese Government Cabinet Office, as well as various government ministries. 97 companies and 2,264 visitors joined to exchange their experiences of local development.

Messe Frankfurt in Asia: a timeline 1987 – 2017

1987: Messe Frankfurt launches its first trade fair in Asia, Interstoff Asia – International Fabric Show, in Hong Kong in October.

1990: The first subsidiary in Asia, Messe Frankfurt K.K. is established in Tokyo, Japan

1994: The company’s second Asian subsidiary, Messe Frankfurt (HK) Ltd, is established in July to cope with the growing business in Hong Kong and Mainland China.

1995: A branch office of Messe Frankfurt (HK) is opened in Taipei to oversee the increasing participation of Taiwanese companies at trade fairs in Europe.

1995: Intertextile Beijing, which takes place in October, is Messe Frankfurt’s first event in Mainland China, held jointly with The Sub-Council of Textile Industry, China Council for Promotional Trade. This marks the start of a long and successful partnership for apparel fabrics and home textiles events in China in the years to come.

1996: A new fair for the stationery industry, Pen & Paper, is launched in Hong Kong in partnership with the Hong Kong Trade Development Council. The event is renamed as the Hong Kong International Stationery Fair in 2001.

1990: First Asian subsidiary is established in Tokyo, Messe Frankfurt K.K.

2000: Messe Frankfurt K.K. and Mesago Japan Corp. merges and becomes Mesago Messe Frankfurt Corp.

2002: The growing trade fair business in China and an increasing number of joint ventures and business partnerships necessitate the opening of an office in Shanghai in March – the company’s first office in Mainland China.

2003: Messe Frankfurt opens an office in Beijing in May to manage the rapidly growing outgoing business and assist Chinese companies to attend fairs in Frankfurt and around the world.

2005: In October, Messe Frankfurt establishes a joint venture company with Guangzhou Guangya Exhibition Co Ltd, forming Guangzhou Guangya Messe Frankfurt – organiser of the biggest lighting fair in Asia and the second largest in the world.

2009: Messe Frankfurt New Era Business Media Ltd becomes a subsidiary of Messe Frankfurt (HK) Ltd. Based in Taiwan, it is responsible for exhibitions, conferences, websites and magazines related to security.

2013: Messe Frankfurt New Era Business Media Ltd establishes a subsidiary in Shenzhen to better promote its safety and security portfolio, and offer expanded services for the Mainland China market.

2014: Messe Frankfurt (HK) Ltd and the Guangdong Toy Association (GDTA) form a joint venture, Guangzhou Li Tong Messe Frankfurt Co Ltd, to organise the Toy & Hobby China and Baby & Stroller China fairs.

Reaffirmed dedication to CSR in China

While Messe Frankfurt is enjoying steady growth in its core businesses, it is also dedicated to supporting social and environmental initiatives as an integral part of its corporate philosophy. Through its trade fairs and CSR projects, Messe Frankfurt strives to raise local public awareness of a number of important issues.

In March 2017, the tree-planting event CAPAS Arbour Day took place in Sichuan to promote the cultural and ecological development of the province. In June of the same year, the Paperworld China team visited under-developed areas in Yunnan to provide well-needed school supplies. Thanks to support by government-affiliated associations in Yunnan and sponsorship from exhibitors of Paperworld China 2017, stationery and other necessities worth RMB 640,000 were distributed. This included student desks and chairs, as well as bedding and television sets.

At Music China 2016, the Kids' Music Castle – a specially designed multi-sensory experience zone enabled around 100 autistic kids to explore the outside world under the guidance of music therapists. Instruments and musical story books were also donated to seven learning centres for autistic children in Jiangsu, Zhejiang and Shanghai. Two rural dwellers from the Dong ethnic group in Guangxi, China were also sponsored to exhibit at Paperworld China 2016 to showcase their local sewing techniques and handcraft.

Since 2009, the China Intangible Cultural Heritage of Home Textiles and Handicraft Display Area has been showcased at Intertextile Shanghai Home Textiles, aiming to promote exchanges between Chinese and Western cultures, as well as the innovation of intangible cultural heritage.

Messe Frankfurt is also dedicated to supporting social causes through direct donations. Since 2007, the company has been contributing HKD 200,000 annually to major charitable organisations in Hong Kong. In 2008, an amount of RMB 300,000 was donated to the China Red Cross to provide assistance to survivors of the Sichuan earthquake. The company has also initiated a series of voluntary activities to promote work-life balance through supporting NGOs. These included the Stride for a Cure in 2012 which aimed to raise funds for the prevention and treatment of cancer, as well as a home-visit programme for the elderly in 2016.

Furthermore, in light of growing ecological concerns in society, since 2013 Messe Frankfurt has extended its portfolio of events for environmental technologies under the segments of Technology, Mobility & Logistics and Textiles & Textile Technology. These concerns were addressed in several themed exhibitions like Eco Expo Asia in Hong Kong, as well as other smaller industry segments, such as air and water purification systems in buildings, sustainable technologies for textiles and accessories, new energy vehicles and remanufacturing of automobile parts.

Also at Tokyo, donations were made by Mesago Messe Frankfurt to the "Tohoku Region Pacific Coast Earthquake" occurred on 11 March 2011 and "The 2016 Kumamoto Earthquake" on 14 and 16 April 2016. Donations were made on respective years to the local government and NGOs. The earthquake that shook the Tohoku region was most powerful in years, producing tsunami and causing a meltdown of the nuclear power plant in Fukushima. The earthquake in Kumamoto claimed numerous casualties and left a deep impact on the nation while the 2011 earthquake was still fresh in everyone's mind. Many areas are still under reconstruction. The company's deepest condolence stretches to those who were affected and is wishing for the quickest possible recovery of the regions in Japan.
